

Twilite and Scarlet Security Announce New Local Ownership

Yellowknife, NT – October 07, 2012

Twilite Security Ltd and Scarlet Security Services are pleased to announce new ownership, effective October of this year. The new ownership is comprised of existing President Patrick Doyle, a longtime northern resident, and new stakeholder Steve Matthews of Calgary.

Both companies will maintain their exclusively northern focus, and all local personnel will continue in their current positions, with Doyle now leading the management team as President and majority owner.

Doyle commented “Having managed this business for 10 years, I’m proud of what we have achieved in terms of training, job creation and the development of standards in northern security that are competitive with any security business in the south. Now I am genuinely excited to bring the headquarters of Twilite to Yellowknife and to take on more responsibilities as an owner. This new structure not only makes us a Northern Business, the partnership gives us the financial depth to continue to expand our capabilities and improve our quality and standards of service, as well as access to the latest technologies being used in the safety and security markets.”

Matthews added, “Partnering with Pat to buy out the previous owners was an easy decision – Twilite and Scarlet Security have a great staff and great JV partners, and they are poised to support the growth and the projects that will make the North the most exciting place to be in next decade. I’m looking forward to working with Pat’s team, and to bringing high-tech M2M and Work-Alone technologies to the North. It’s one of those rare times where the whole really is greater than the sum of the parts.”

About Twilite and Scarlet Security

Operating in all three northern territories, Twilite provides security services to a large number of private and government locations. Twilite believes in meeting its business opportunities by developing unique training programs so that employees and managers can be recruited and hired within the community in which they dwell, whenever possible. Our northern-based workforce, and our training initiatives and job shadowing programs, are key aspects in our sustainable growth and our position as the largest security firm in the North.

Scarlet Security is our remote services division, providing specialized expertise to remote mining, ice roads, and oil and gas projects. Twilite and Scarlet are COR certified to the National standard, and are currently implementing ISO 9001/2000 Standards, with a target for target for ISO certification of late Dec 2012. www.twilitesecurity.ca

Patrick Doyle, President & Director

Patrick has lived and worked in Iqaluit, Nunavut for most of his adult life until relocating to Yellowknife, NT in January 2006. As the current President of Twilite and Scarlet Security, he enjoys the opportunity to work with staff and stakeholders across the Yukon, NWT and Nunavut. During his time in Yellowknife, he has been an active member of the community, serving as the Vice-President of the Yellowknife Chamber of Commerce and chairing the Government Affairs Committee for the Chamber. He has also served a one year term as President of the Yellowknife Chamber of Commerce, and is currently a board member for the NWT Chamber of Commerce, the Akaitcho Business Development Corporation and Stanton Territorial Hospital Foundation.

Steve Matthews, Director

Steve has been a serial entrepreneur for the last 15 years, owning several businesses in western Canada. His focus has typically been creating growth by providing structured funding for new opportunities or completing product development projects. These businesses include Venture Helicopters, Kodiak Nav Solutions, Absolute Equipment Solutions, and Absolute Fire Solutions. Currently he is the President & majority shareholder of Absolute Trac, of Calgary, which provides leading-edge telematics hardware and M2M & WorkAlone products to resource, energy and security businesses worldwide. www.absolutetrac.com

For more information, please contact:

Patrick Doyle
President

Office 1-867-873-3202